Bailey Vetoes Bill Cutting Licenses for Automobiles

Governor Asserts It Would Hamper State Refunding Program

MAINTAIN CREDIT

Governor's Object Is to Reduce Highway Interest Charge

LITTLE ROCK—Declaring enactment of the measure would hamper refunding of the state's $141,000,000 state highway indebtedness, Governor Bailey vetoed the Kimzey bill to reduce automobile license fees, from $2 to $6 on each car or truck, late Wednesday.

Senator Joe Kimzey of Magnet, author of the measure, immediately started parliamentary procedure necessary for an attempt to override the veto. Senator Kimzey declined to say whether he would ask the senate to override the governor's action, but said he had opened the way for such action.

The bill was passed by the senate, 30-0, and the house, 81-0. To override the governor's veto, a bill must obtain 51 votes in the House and 18 votes in the senate on reconsideration.

Governor Bailey sent the senate a lengthy message in explanation of his veto. He prefaced it with the declaration that "the effort to accomplish refunding of the $141,000,000 state highway indebtedness has made more satisfactory progress in the past few weeks than at any time since the effort was begun in January, 1937."

Time Inopportune

"While I am not at liberty to make public the factors that make up the progress, I am under the duty to assert that they are such as to give the governor a feeling of distinct optimism," Governor Bailey said.

"You are conscious that the refunding of the highway debt will result in making money now used for the payment of interest available for construction and maintenance of roads and for the earlier reduction of the amount of taxes which our people must pay under the present contract with our creditors."

"Many factors enter into the present more favorable credit position of the state. Chief among these has been the deposition of the Executive Department to insist upon a strict adherence to the terms of our contract, even though painful to ourselves. The enactment of legislation relating to road revenues which is objectionable to our creditors definitely imperils the present opportunity to accomplish the refunding of the debt."

The governor said Arkansas bankers and representatives of bondholders had registered vigorous objections to the bill and that attorneys of the Bondholders Protective Committee of St. Louis, Mo., had declared that its enactment would involve the state in litigation with the state's creditors.

"Being men of broad experience, you will recognize that if the state is involved in litigation with her creditors, regardless of the ultimate result, the state's credit will be seriously impaired in the meantime, and that impairment will be reflected in a decline in the market value of Arkansas bonds," Governor Bailey said.

"Such a decline would make refunding possible."

"While it is my personal opinion that the ultimate effects of the provisions of Senate Bill 44 would be beneficial to the individual automobile owners of the state and to the state's total revenues, and thus beneficial to the state's creditors, I must, out of a desire to do what is best for the largest number, resolve the doubt in favor of the contention of our creditors and our thousands of citizens who are investors in our bonds."

"Therefore, as much as I regret that I must reach such a conclusion, I have concluded that it is my solemn duty

Permit for New Gas Line Argued

Louisiana-Nevada Transit Co. Appears Before Washington Body

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Louisiana-Nevada Transit company proposed Thursday to offer reduced rates to municipalities in asking approval of its application to pipe natural gas from the Cotton Valley field, Webster parish, Louisiana, to Okay, Ark., principally for the Ideal Cement company.

A. Delaney, Jr., of Ada, Okla., chairman of the board of the applicant, testified he had a 10-year contract to supply the company's Arkansas branch at a price of 10 cents charged by the Arkansas-Louisiana Gas company over a 9-year period.

Objection was raised to testimony on rates the applicant said would be offered Hope, Texarkana and elsewhere on the ground that the only matter before the commission was the contract with the cement company.

The Arkansas-Louisiana company, now serving the cement plant, is resisting the application on the ground that the loss of this large industrial customer might necessitate an increase in rates to other customers.

He is Senator Lewis Baxter Schwellenbach of Washington, bound for a quiet evening of hard work and study in his own parlor. And if the current gossip is true—if President Roosevelt does appoint him to the Supreme Court in place of retired Justice Brandeis—the Court will be getting a man who applies himself to his job so steadily that there is no room in his life for anything else.

It will also be getting a deep-dyed western liberal. Senator Schwellenbach has been among the most ardent of Senate New Dealers. Since he was sworn in in 1935, he has voted against Roosevelt just once—on the refusal to confirm Judge Roberts of Virginia. And on that occasion he had lots and lots of company.

Interested In End, Not Means
The rest of the time he has been a thoroughgoing left winger. A lawyer by profession, he approaches problems from the human side rather than legalistically.

A friend remarks that his attitude is much like that of Justice Black. In looking at a statute, he does not ask whether it was passed with due legalistic ceremony and is buttressed by proper precedent, but whether the end which it achieves is socially desirable. Senator Schwellenbach has criticized the Court severely, in his day. He was strong for the famous Roosevelt Court reorganization plan. When the Court knocked out the pillars of the first wave of New Deal legislation and invalidated the first AA set-up, he remarked:

"Revolutions come at a time when people feel that their governments are impotent to assist them in the solution of their problems. It is after the people come to the feeling that sincere efforts on their part have been frustrated and that all efforts are futile that they are willing to make a change in their government. We in America are dangerously near that feeling of futility as the result of the action of the Supreme Court in nullifying every effort of the Congress to solve the economic problems of the people."

His Job Is Paramount

It was about that time, too, that he proposed a constitutional amendment which would require that any constitutional change proposed by Congress be submitted to the states at the next general election, or at special legislative sessions called within six months.

This, he held, would furnish "machinery for a practical referendum," and by making both amendment and repeal of amendments easier, would remove the people's fear of constitutional changes.

Meanwhile, as mentioned above, he is a hard worker. I asked a close personal friend of his what recreations the senator has.

"He has none," replied the friend. "Well, what are his hobbies?" "He hasn't any."

"What does he do for exercise?" "He never gets any."

"Well, what does he do with his time, then?"

"He works. Literally, that's all he does. He doesn't golf, doesn't fish, doesn't swim, doesn't go riding in Rock Creek park; he and his wife rarely go out socially. He just works all the time."

The senator puts in a full day at his office and in the Senate chamber. Evenings, he stocks up on papers and magazines and goes home to digest them, on the theory that keeping himself thoroughly informed is part of his job. Otherwise he fills a brief case with papers from his office and goes home to study them.

Stogies Are His Recreation

Apparently his one non-essential activity is smoking. He consumes large numbers of cigars; chews them as much as he smokes them.

Senator Schwellenbach was born in Superior, Wis., in 1894. His family moved to the state of Washington when he was still small; at the age of eight he was peddling papers in Spokane to help support his widowed mother.

He put himself through the University of Washington, winning his law degree in 1917. During the war he served in the 12th U. S. infantry. After the armistice he entered law practice in Seattle.

A member of the American Legion he was a department commander in 1922. He unsuccessfully sought the Democratic nomination for governor of Washington in 1932. In 1933 he served as president of the Board of Regents of the University of Washington.

STRUCK AT AZORES

Identity of Ship Remains Mystery—British Boat Is Safe

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Captain G. S. Bryan, the Navy's chief hydrographer, expressed the opinion Thursday that a stray floating mine might have sunk the unidentified ship which Wednesday finished a report that it had been torpedoed in the Atlantic ocean.

Bryan said the Naval Hydrographic Office had been advised by radio January 27 that a mine had been sighted by the oil tanker California Standard about 600 miles southwest of the Azores.

Naval officers said ocean currents and winds might easily have carried the mine to the position reported by the vessel Wednesday.

British Ship Oked

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—The Portishead radio station declared Thursday that the captain of the S. S. Pecten had accepted a radio inquiry from the Associated Press at 4:25 a. m., the first assurance that the tanker was afloat since receipt of the mysterious SOS from off the Azores Wednesday.

At the same time the owners of the vessel said, "There is every indication that the vessel sending the SOS was not the Pecten."

No Higher Taxes, Business Is Told

Morgenthau Says Congress Will Attempt to Help Business

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau told business men Thursday that they not only need not worry about new taxes but may hope for improvements in present taxes to help business.

Expanding on and endorsing President Roosevelt's statement last week that business men need fear no new taxes, Morgenthau said:

"I sincerely hope congress will take a careful look at the tax laws and see if there are any deterrents holding back business and business men from making further commitments."

Dorsey M'Rae Home Is Damaged by Fire

Loss Estimated at $2,500; Roof Is Virtually Destroyed

Fire damaged the Dorsey M'Rae home, 1123 East Third street, to the approximate extent of $2,500 at 10:30 a. m. Thursday before the Hope Fire Department extinguished the blaze.

The fire apparently started from a spark lighting on the roof, burned inward to the attic and then "mushroomed" upward again. Fire burned a hole in the roof about 40 feet long and 20 feet wide.

Considerable damage was caused by water to the plastered walls and ceiling and to household furniture.

These scenes photographed by Hope Star a year ago in the Blevins gymnasium will be re-enacted this week in both Hempstead and Nevada counties.

The Hempstead county basketball tournament for senior boys' teams will be held all day Saturday, February 25 in the new gymnasium at Saratoga, Guernsey and Spring Hill meeting in the opening game.

The senior girls' teams of Hempstead will hold their tournament, also at Saratoga, the following Saturday, March 4, the opening game being between Blevins and Guernsey girls.

The senior boys and girls of Nevada county are opening their tournament at Prescott this Thursday night, February 23, three games being scheduled in the first round, starting at 7 o'clock.

Three games are scheduled at Prescott Friday afternoon, beginning at 1 o'clock; and three Friday night, beginning at 7 o'clock.

The Nevada semi-finals for both boys and girls will be played Saturday morning, starting at 8 o'clock—with the finals beginning Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock.

House Votes 82-6 to Kill Lottery; Now Up to Senate

Weisenberger Bill Would Stop Local "Buck Night" Performances

Abandon Bill for Uniformly Free High School Texts

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Representative Royce Weisenberger, Hope, passed in the house Thursday a bill to prohibit Hempstead county theaters from making cash prize awards at "Buck Night" performances.

The vote was 82 to 6—and the bill went to the senate.

Usually reliable sources disclosed Thursday that the state administration had abandoned plans to seek passage of the Smith-Bryson free high school text book bill embodying uniform adoption features that are opposed by the Arkansas Education association.

An administration leader in the house said a substitute measure probably would be introduced later this week.

The bill, described by many as the most controversial measure before the legislature, was amended earlier this week by Rozzell, of Pulaski, a school teacher, which partly eliminated the uniformity provisions.

Blue Law Repealer

Without debate the senate passed 18 to 8 a bill by Senator Beck, West Memphis, to repeal Arkansas' Sunday blue laws and to vest counties and cities with authority to regulate Sunday activities.

The bill would repeal sections 3418 to 3427, inclusive, of the Digest.

The senate passed 25 to 4 the Guernsey-Miller bill increasing marriage ages for girls and boys. The bill increases from 14 to 16 the minimum marriageable age of females, and from 16 to 18 the minimum marriageable age for males. Girls under 18, and boys under 21, are not to be permitted to marry without the consent of their parents.

The house passed a bill which Toney of Jefferson said was designed to provide stricter regulation of the liquor industry.

The measure prohibits manufacturers and wholesalers from making loans to retailers. It also bans secret discounts and rebates differing from the posted price, or any gifts to induce retailers to make purchases.

Pension Fund Denied

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Old age pension advocates in the state senate failed Wednesday in an attempt to amend the Milum sales tax re-enactment bill so as to increase the amount of revenue allocated for welfare purposes from 25 to 37 1/2 per cent at the expense of the common school fund. The amendment received only eight votes to 25 against it.

Under the existing sales tax law and under provisions of the Milum bill, 50 per cent of all sales tax revenue is allocated to the common school fund and 25 per cent to the welfare fund.

The controversial amendment, introduced by Senator W. H. Abington of Beebe, would have provided for equal division of the 75 per cent between the two funds.

Emotional pleas for adoption of the amendment were made by Dr. Abington and Senator Cean F. Houston of Heber Springs, two of the three authors of a bill signed by Governor Bailey Tuesday to reorganize the state's welfare set-up and to allocate 75 per cent of all welfare funds, after deduction of administrative expenses and $100,000 for indigent hospitalization, solely to pensions for the aged and blind.

"This amendment will put some money in the old age pension fund," Dr. Abington said. "It's a question of whether you want to make the old age pension bill workable or leave it like an idle gesture. This amendment will take a lot of our old people off the 'want' list."

Chamberlain May Aid Italy, France

Italians Want Hitler, But Will Take Chamberlain as Mediator

ROME, Italy.—(AP)—Hints of mediation by British Prime Minister Chamberlain of differences arising from Italian aspirations toward French territory appeared Thursday in two Italian newspapers.

One paper said Chamberlain was preparing a plan to settle Italy's as yet unofficial claims for French colonial concessions.

Another paper, one of Italy's leading provincial organs, at the same time listed Fascist obstacles to mediation by Chamberlain, saying Italy would prefer Chamberlain to Hitler, but "sincerely hoped for success" on the British part.

Longhorns Now Have 8 Victories to Top Conference Race

AUSTIN, Texas.—The University of Texas stayed on top of the Southwest Conference basketball race Wednesday night with an easy 53 to 26 victory over Texas Christian University.

The win gave Texas eight wins to two losses and left the Christians with 11 consecutive defeats and no victories in conference play.

The TCU team at no time made a serious threat and trailed 11 to 24 at half-time.

Thurman Hull and Bobby Moers shared high point honors for Texas with 10 each. Crescencio scored nine for the Christians.

Arkadelphia Man to Be Foreign Correspondent

ARKADELPHIA, Ark.—Otto Harrison, New York, and formerly of this city and for two years a member of the Associated Press staff in New York City, will sail on the Ile de France Thursday for London where he will take up foreign correspondent duties for the Associated Press.

Prior to his service in New York City, he was stationed at Albany, N. Y., where he was assigned regularly to the capital, Harrison was successful in reporting legislative and political activities.

While he was a student at Quachita College, of which he is a graduate, he served a year as editor of the Signal, college publication. After receiving his AB degree there, he went to Northwestern University where he took the MA degree, specializing in journalism and getting practical experience with newspapers in Chicago.

He is the son of Mrs. R. T. Harrison of this city and of the late R. T. Harrison, who was business manager of Quachita College for more than 10 years.

as governor of this state, acting in the light of probably more intimate knowledge than that in possession of members of the assembly about the subject in hand, to disapprove Senate Bill No. 44.

"This action is not based upon my interpretation of the measure, but is an action calculated to retain the quo and protect the state's present improved credit position until we have exhausted the present and final efforts to accomplish an orderly refunding of the state highway indebtedness."

Charges 'Special Interests'
Senator Kimzey, rising to a point of personal privilege, said the veto was "another very sorrowful halt—momentarily I trust" in his 12-year fight for a reduction of car license fees.

"One or two special interests out of Arkansas resort to themselves the right to say whether or not our people shall have some sort of relief," he declared.

"I think that the people in their might and their power will demonstrate in the next election whether the right to have the last word has been taken away from them. The people now will be ready to take matters in their own hands and give these outside interests what they have asked for."

Marriage Curb Is Urged Upon State

Council Recommends Requiring of Advance Notice

LITTLE ROCK.—The Arkansas Legislative Council for Social Legislation, membership of which embraces 11 state organizations, issued a statement late Wednesday urging the legislature to enact a marriage law containing a provision requiring advance notice of intention to wed.

Senate Bill No. 156 by Senators Maupin Cummings of Fayetteville and Roy Milum of Harrison originally contained such a provision, but it was stricken from the bill by adoption of an amendment offered by Senator J. O. E. Beck Jr., of Crittenden county.

"The council believes that the essential value of advance notice in preventing illegal, drunken and hasty marriages already has been established and that the bill must carry this provision before its final passage," the statement said, pointing out that 23 states and the District of Columbia now have "advance notice" laws. It continued:

"The council realizes that in addition to the dire need for our state to do something to curb the thousands of heartbreaks which result annually from hasty marriages, it also must recognize the great advantage of uniformity in marriage laws and do its part toward helping to achieve this goal."

"With the neighboring states of Tennessee and Mississippi already protecting their young people with advance notice laws, should Arkansas continue to invite evasion of these laws with a 'marriage market' just across the border?"

The Milum-Cummings bill would raise the "consent" age for marriage from 14 to 16 for girls and from 17 to 18 for boys. Twenty-six states have minimum age requirements as high or higher than those provided for in the bill.

1939 to Be Best Since '29, Belief

United Drug Speaker Optimistic at State Rexall Meeting

LITTLE ROCK.—Belief that 1939 would be the "best business year since 1929" was expressed by F. O. Williams of the United Drug company, Boston, Mass., in an address at the closing session of the Arkansas Rexall convention here Wednesday.

Mr. Williams, speaking as a personal representative of President Louis K. Leggett of the national drug concern, said the company had made substantial budget increases in its drug, sundries, advertising and other departments in preparation for a considerable business expansion this year.

Loy Hess of Eureka Springs was installed as president of the Arkansas Rexall club.

It's Hard Job to Deliver This Cash

Social Security Encounters Case of Off-Changed Administrator

TEXARKANA, Ark.—The "Message to Garcia" and other historic examples of faithful effort have at last been rivaled, John H. Cooter, manager of the Social Security Board field office in Texarkana, said Thursday.

A Social Security Board field manager received an application for a lump-sum benefit under the federal old-age insurance program resulting from the death of a wage earner whose only survivor was an aged aunt. The manager informed friends of the deceased that since there was no wife or children, appointment of an administrator was required, advising them of the steps to be taken.

Because of ill health, the aunt could not be named administrator so the probate judge appointed a friend of the family. The federal check arrived in the name of the administrator, but could not be delivered because in the meantime the administrator had died. The judge named another administrator who in turn was killed in an industrial accident. The manager wrote letters to the judge informing him of the new situation, but received no answer. The climax was capped when word came that the judge had died.

A new official took the bench and the field manager acquainted him with the facts. A third administrator was appointed and the aged aunt received payment.

"Claims problems are seldom as complicated as this," Cooter commented. "In most cases appointment of an administrator is not necessary."

"The average time required from the day claims papers are received in the field office until the beneficiary receives his check now averages less than 21 days."

Cooter's office is located at 406 Federal Building, Texarkana.

Japanese-Chinese Issue Broadcast

Noted Speakers Are Appearing Over NBC on Thursday Night

A radio broadcast of international interest will feature "The Town Meeting of the Air" Thursday, February 23, at 9:30 p. m. Hope time. The Japanese occupation of China will be explained and matters of interest to Americans in connection with the military strength of Japan will be discussed.

Among the speakers on the broadcast will be: Dr. Walter H. Judd, eyewitness of Japanese occupation in China, Dr. Percy Noel, author of "When Japan Fights," and Dr. Thomas Healy, co-author of "Why Meddle in the Orient?"

Dr. Judd, who has been described as "the most effective speaker on China now appearing before American audiences," will meet able exponents of opposing views according to the announcement which has been made by the American Committee for Non-Participation in Japanese Aggression.

The forfeit to Hope, it was understood, will give the Bobcats a victory in conference standings. However, this has not been definitely determined.

Norman Green, forward of the Bobcat team, holds the conference individual high scoring record with 42 points in a single game, and also leads other conference players with an average of 21.1 points per game.

The Bobcats have scored a total of 863 points for a season average of 45 points per game.

J. D. Jones, regular center who has been ill the past few days, is expected to make the trip to Pine Bluff. Whether Coach Fay Hammons will be able to go has not been determined. Hammons has been suffering with a slight attack of flu.

In the event he fails to make the trip, Assistant Coach Bill Brasher will replace the team in tournament play. Following is the individual record of each Hope player:

Editor The Star: Please publish this short letter which is intended to simply add to what Mr. Bowden has already said in two letters, the last one last evening in your paper.

Mr. Bowden says the Chamber of Commerce is making as their goal, "a live stock market for Hope."

I am 100% for him in his idea and think he is to be commended for his letter. But he has failed on one important thing and that is not mentioning the names of Sutton & Collier, who have built the live stock sales to where they not only draw from Hope's trade territory, but are attracting buyers from several states—and in all fairness these boys who are not making any effort to place themselves in the limelight should have recognition.

Hope Debate Team Beats Arkadelphia

Negative and Affirmative Groups Both Win Foreign Debate

In the first debate of the year the Hope negative and affirmative teams won two unanimous decisions in a meet with Arkadelphia Tuesday afternoon. The debate was held in the auditorium and Biology Laboratory were witnessed by approximately 50 students and faculty members. The question for argument was "Resolved, That the United States should form a lasting alliance with Great Britain."

The affirmative was upheld by Frederick Taylor and Frances Yocum, and the negative side was debated by Dick McFarland and another Arkadelphia student. Mr. R. E. Jackson acted as chairman.

Debating in the Biology Laboratory were Irl Randolph Jr. and J. W. Huggs of Arkadelphia supporting the affirmative, with Billy Orton and Edward Lester as the negative debaters. Mr. Galbraith served as chairman.

The judges included Rev. Thomas Brewster, Mrs. Henry Haynes, Lawrence Martin, Syd McMath, Van Hays and Lawson Glover.

Edward Lester and Frederick Taylor are hold-overs from last year's team, and Billy Orton and Frances Yocum were selected in recent competition. The Hope debating team will go to Arkadelphia Thursday, March 2, and plans have been made for the team to compete in tournaments to be held at Henderson and Magnolia A. and M.

Fire Destroys Negro Home Near Washington

The home of George E. Smith, negro, of Washington Route One, was completely destroyed by fire Wednesday noon. Relatives, who had arrived from St. Louis, also lost their clothing and other personal belongings. The entire household goods and furnishings of the Smith home went up in smoke and fire.

FOR Children's SNIFFLES

SPARE your child much of the misery of sniffing, sneezing, and blowing (due to colds) by doing one simple thing. Insert a little Mentholum in his nostrils. This soothing ointment will check sniffing and sneezing. It will help open his nostrils, enabling him to breathe more freely.

Also rub Mentholum on his chest, back, and neck tonight. This will stimulate circulation. Meanwhile, the medicinal vapors will circulate through the breathing passages as a further aid in clearing up mucus and soothing irritated membranes. You'll be glad to see how much better he feels.

Value Is Added to Meat in New Way

Here's a Scotch Trick Every Homemaker Will Welcome

Our cooking expert has just made a new discovery... a way to make meat go further... make it taste better... and add extra food value. All at the same time and at a cost of about one penny.

So get out your scissors because there's a recipe coming that you'll want to save. It's for Quaker Meat Patties, a main course dish that will make the whole family sit up and all appetites take notice.

But first let us tell you that oatmeal is just about the finest meat extender there is. When you remember the butcher bills and how little oatmeal costs, you'll be delighted to know about this new use for such a delicious and healthful food.

Oatmeal supplies proteins for firm flesh and those valuable body-building minerals, phosphorus and iron. And even more important—it also is nature's richest economical source of Thiamin (Vitamin B₁) which everybody needs continually for best health. Quaker meat patties are an excellent way to give your family the precious health benefits contained in Quaker Oats. And here's the recipe:

Quaker's Meat Patties
(Serves 6)

6 slices bacon
1/2 lb. beef (ground)
1/2 lb. pork (ground)
1 egg (beaten)
1 tablespoon onion (chopped)
1 cup tomatoes (canned or fresh)
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup Quaker or Mother's Oats
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper

Line 6 muffin tins with strips of bacon. Combine remaining ingredients and mix well. Put into the muffin tins. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for approximately 1 hour.

SERIAL STORY

WOMEN WANT BEAUTY!

BY LOUISE HOLMES
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, Susie, has nearly finished her beauty program. Already she is interested in her hair and is finding an increasing interest in Jeff.

CHAPTER XVII

JEFF went back to the lay-out and Susie, in a series of graceful twirls, made for the piano. Her hands ran across the keys in a growing crescendo of chords and trills. She had played before in the gymnasium, she had sung quiet little ballads, but it had been nothing like this. Susie and Emma had scarcely noticed her singing before. Now they stood gazing in the shower room door as she burst into song.

"It was a song of triumph, of exultant youth. Why she sang like that she could not have told. Her voice was rich and deep, it had a faint huskiness that reached the hearts of her two listeners. "And I'd give all the world for just one caress," she sang. "I'm lonely, I guess, that's all." The song stopped and she sat there, rapt, tear-filled eyes on her hands. "I'm going to be beautiful tomorrow," she thought. "When Dick comes he'll find me beautiful." Oh the joy of it, the almost unendurable joy.

Sven came to the piano with typewritten pages. His work was done. He had written instructions and she must follow them to the letter. Diet lists, rules for exercise and weekly massage.

Thanking him, Susie put a hand on his arm. "You've been so kind, Sven—and Emma—" looking past him to smile at his wife. "You've both been so patient and good to me."

They said incoherent and embarrassed things. It had been a pleasure—they wanted to see her again—they backed away in confusion.

Left alone in the gymnasium Susie played for an hour, lovely melodies, popular numbers which she had picked up by ear. It was almost Christmas, the happiest Christmas a girl ever had. Would Dick come home for the holidays? If he came would she see him? In her heart she knew the answer. The kind fates could not go so far and then withdraw their gifts.

ON the following morning Harker's beauty salon was a beehive of activity, of consultation, of dissent and disagreement. Miss Fleming, studied Susie, front view and side, she made suggestions as to hair-do and makeup. White linen-clad girls and a young man with expert beauty ideas hovered near, waiting for orders, excited over their part of the program. Only a few appointments had been made, Susie was to hold the floor for most of the day.

She had arrived at nine wearing a plain little dress loaned by the Missus section, fresh, glowing, eyes dancing with expectancy. By 9:30 the shop had settled down to a routine. The young man with ideas put a permanent wave in Susie's hair. It was done carefully, lovingly. Susie's wave was to outshine anything ever done by young Pierre. At noon she emerged from his booth, a net over her hair, small squares of cotton under the elastic.

Followed an exacting process. Susie, stretched on a table, eyes tightly closed, gallantly suffered a forest of eyebrows to be removed. The operator was clever, with each pull of the tweezers her fingers pressed the stinging spot. In spite of the care tears squeezed between Susie's lids. At intervals the brows were smoothed with soothing lotion, Susie was given a moment to relax. At last she arose from the table, soaked cotton strapped above her eyes.

At each step the commercial artist was nearby, making idealized sketches. It was the most widely publicized program ever sponsored by Harker's, it was soon to come to a smashing climax.

SUSIE'S lunch was served in a dimly lighted room specially set aside for her. Like a mummy, swathed in white, she lay back on a chaise longue and allowed herself to be waited upon. It was like a story from Arabian Nights, it was like a fantastic dream, swiftly coming true. Susie Lambert, who had stolidly served waffles to indifferent youthful patrons, smiled graciously on minions as they hurried about in her behalf, wings of rapture beating in her heart, joy surging upward like the pound of waves.

Jeff came in while she ate chicken breast and thick slices of tomato and thinly buttered toast. "Is our rose unfolding her petals?" he asked, sitting beside Susie, somehow making the place cozy and pleasant by his mere presence.

"Oh, Jeff, they are practically killing me and I love it." Her voice had a thrilled undertone, her eyes shone from under the cotton pads.

He looked down, twisting his hat. "Kane's the boss. He put this campaign over."

"He did not," she countered emphatically. "All the worthwhile ideas came from you. I've hardly seen Mr. Kane. Why, Jeff, there wouldn't have been any today if it hadn't been for you. What's the matter with everybody?"

His laugh was light, a shield against his discouragement. "After all I'm just the errand boy," he said.

"That's not true," She went on, loyally. "Can't Mr. Harker see what you've done? I'll tell him—that's what I'll do."

"We know, Jeff," she said softly. "We know about the night you saved me from a malted milk, all the times you've kept me on the right track. I won't forget—ever." Lifting her hand from his she touched his cheek and he turned his head until his lips were against the soft, pink palm. He did not kiss the palm. Instead he rose hastily to his feet.

"YOU'RE a great kid, Susie," he said huskily. "Got to be up and at it. No debutante on the day of her coming out ever got more attention."

"Jeff," she hesitated, "I want you to see me first—before Mr. Harker or anybody." She laughed, a little shred of sound. "I want you to put your stamp of approval on me."

He looked down at her. "I'll be hanging around," he promised. Susie's tray was whisked away. She was taken to a light, corner room to be immediately surrounded by heads of departments with soft, delicate underthings, cowboys' hose at four dollars a pair, shoes of fine leather and dull suede, gowns, furs, strange hats like feather trimmed skull caps and tailored panaches, gloves and costume jewelry.

She was fitted and talked over, pins were placed in foundation garments to guard against even a wrinkle, the length of her skirt was debated. She stood quietly, turning this way and that, thrilling to the seductive materials, loving their feel on her skin. At last the heads of departments hurried away to shops and alteration rooms, each convinced that her part in the evolution of Susie was the most important.

Again Susie was laid on the table and the thrilling task of final makeup began. A girl sat on a stool beside the table putting the last finishing touches to her nails, while Emily, a plain, tense person with magic in her fingertips, did things to Susie's face. Creams, astringents, warm towels, the shock of ice, gently applied powder base, each step in the procedure a different, delightful odor. Susie lay under the ministering hands, drowsily content.

At last Emily's tenderness relaxed and she stepped back. "Look at her," she said to the manicurist. "I never would have believed it."

"Beautiful," the manicurist agreed.

"Let me see," Susie begged.

"After all it's my face."

Emily looked surprised, as if speech had come from an inanimate object.

"Not yet," she said. "Not yet." (To Be Continued)

Thomsen Addresses Little Rock Club

Kopert, Ambort and McConnell to Enroll at University

LITTLE ROCK—(P)—Coach Fred Thomsen of the University of Arkansas said here Wednesday bidding on high school athletes by colleges and universities was starting a new disease known at athlete's head which was much harder to cure than athlete's foot.

"Many boys are shopping around for the highest bidder, and giving no thought as to the best place for them to obtain an education," he said. He warned athletes to get an education along with their football because "when you play your final football game, you immediately fall from the rank of a hero to that of a hum-man being." Thomsen, in telling a luncheon club of coaching problems, said he talked with three Little Rock high school players here Monday concerning their higher education and by the time he got back Wednesday, seven different schools had contacted them.

Albert Kopert, Leo Ambort and Don McConnell, all star football players for Little Rock High School will enroll at the University of Arkansas next fall, it is reported.

HELP 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

To Flush out Acids and Other Poisonous Waste
Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filaments which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or heavy passages with astringent and burning effects there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the beginning of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of yen and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Everybody Needs This Vital Nerve Food*

5 Health Benefits Found In Delicious Quaker Oats

*Yes, it is now known that all ages should have a new daily supply of a precious food for nerves, called Thiamin (Vitamin B₁). Thiamin nourishes nerves, affecting almost every bodily function—yet when lacking makes perfect health impossible. Oatmeal is the richest thrifty source of Thiamin, which the body cannot store. Thus, for your whole family, Thiamin is thrifly available—found in a delicious Quaker Oats breakfast. Remember, too, that oatmeal is outstanding for other health essentials—high in proteins, food-energy, valuable minerals (iron and phosphorus). Easy to prepare, too, highly digestible. Saves time, money. Start getting the benefits of Quaker Oats now. Order a package today.
